

This Week's News

Last week ended with Oak Class's wonderful assembly. Thank you to everybody who carried out their part so well. I was amazed! It was great to see how many different curriculum areas had been wound together to create such an effective learning unit. Many thanks to Mrs Batts and the Early Years Team who are responsible for the great things that happen in Oak Class.

The Seaside theme continued later in the week for Years 1 and 2 with their visit to St Johns Museum and will culminate in the Seaside Beach Party on Wednesday.

I have managed to see, and hear, a small snippet of the Joseph rehearsals which are going really well so I am looking forward to the upcoming performances this week after tonight's SLEEPOVER!

Class Highlights of the Week

Oak Class

This week was our last Wellie Wednesday in Reception. We did some den building in the shade, had a picnic and each child received a book mark. We have also started Sports Day practices and we have been learning how to stay in our own track lane. We have been researching about whales and the sounds they make.

Ash Class

We've been exploring poetry of the sea this week and naming verses, lines, rhymes and alliteration. In topic, the children were fascinated to learn about the life of Grace Darling and her heroic sea rescue of ship wrecked passengers. We had a fantastic time learning about Victorian schools, cookery and crafts at St Johns Museum yesterday. Thank you to all our extra helpers and well done to the children for their excellent effort and behaviour.

Dudley Class

In Literacy this week Dudley have been so creative! Using their knowledge of words' definitions and their artistic talents, they have produced fantastic calligrams. We were amazed by the variety and effort in their ideas.

Waller Class

We have enjoyed the different Mathematics we have been doing this week, looking at how we can play with numbers and make predictions. We can now factorise numbers, scale up shapes and work out different ways of organising vases on a shelf! Year 5 have been in fine voice, practising for Joseph.

Wise

This week Year 6 took part in a Mathematics investigation with a teacher from Kenilworth School. We calculated the possible combinations of different flavoured ice cream where we could have 2 scoops. The children developed the equation $1/2n(n+1)!!$

4 children also represented All Saints' in a Year 6 Mathematics challenge and showed great team spirit and sharp thinking. Well done all.
